

Legislature Approves Purchase of Buick Garage

By LYNN MULVANEY. KINGSTON The Buick garage purchase proposal has traveled a bumpy road since it first surfaced six years ago but after one hour of steady debate Thursday night the Ulster County Legislature finally smoothed the way for acquisition of the site with two votes more than needed for passage, (19-13).

19 to 13 showed members of the board in and out of the city crossing partylines to vote what they felt their constituents wanted. The proposal was presented by the bi-partisan county building committee, Robert H. Khulmann (R-Dist. 7), chairman.

Klein (D-Dist. 6) and defeated 18-14. Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, (D-City) another opponent of the proposal, also suggested that more studies be conducted including the feasibility of parking at Dietz Stadium and transporting employees in mini-buses.

Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist. 6) who voted the proposal down, said he felt his constituents don't mind walking a distance to the building. Another District 6 legislator, Lewis C. Kirschner, a Democrat, felt the price was too high and Eugene Perry (D-City) suggested that employees use the city's parking garage and keep the lots open around the County Office Building.

County Fire Appointments Postponed

KINGSTON Appointment of a county fire coordinator and two deputies has been postponed in order that the Firemanic and Civil Defense Committees of the Ulster County Legislature "can secure more input" regarding who should be named to fill the posts.

A resolution naming J. Gregson Greer as fire coordinator to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Raymond J. Morris and the appointment of Wesley D. Clark as first deputy coordinator and Duncan D. Wilson, second deputy coordinator, was expected to be acted upon Thursday night at a meeting of the County Legislature.

The measure was withdrawn by the sponsors however, reportedly due to criticism of the appointments by some firemen in the county.

Proposal of the appointments was made by James Palen (R-Dist. 8), on behalf of the committees and by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8), Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8) and Thomas Roach (R-Dist. 8).

In positive action taken by the board it agreed to:

- Support an education program for drunk drivers to be conducted at Ulster County Community College.

- Regain possession of an Indian wampum belt previously loaned to the Senate House Museum. Also ancient county records now in the hands of the Ulster County Historical Society.

- Direct the Tax Base Study Committee to investigate any legal means of reimbursing the various towns of the county and the City of Kingston for services furnished by the communities.

- Request continued state support for county fairs.

- Request state improvements to Route 209.

- Oppose Gov. Hugh Carey's proposal to reduce aid to upstate community colleges.

- Oppose the recent ruling of the Public Service Commission regarding reduction of bills for customers by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company, Con-Edison, Orange and Rockland Utilities and Long Island Lighting Company.

- Urge the New York State Legislature to enact legislation making fringe benefits for employees of the health and probation departments eligible for state aid.

- Appropriate $7,500 for the Ulster County Nutrition Program for the elderly sponsored by Ulster County Community Action Inc.

A proposal to express support for a June primary date in 1975 and a permanent primary date thereafter was defeated along party lines with the Democrats for and the GOP against.

Young Woman Is Arrested

KINGSTON Evelyn "Tina" Price, 18, of 324 Wall Street, was held overnight without bail in the Ulster County Jail, following her arraignment before Special City Judge George Beck Thursday on charges involving shoplifting and an alleged fight with a city patrolman Wednesday.

Miss Price had already spent Wednesday night in the jail, in lieu of the $1,050 initially set by Beck when she came before him that day.

She is charged with petit larceny, disorderly conduct, assault in the second degree, and resisting arrest.

According to police reports, Miss Price was observed in the Woolworth Department Store on Wall Street Wednesday allegedly in the act of shoplifting earrings. Patrolman Howard Kelly, in the store at the time, was summoned by the store manager, according to police reports, and Miss Price allegedly refused to show him her bag, shouted an obscenity at him and then shoved the patrolman away and fled.

The patrolman caught up with her in front of the Stuyvesant Tailors on Wall Street, and Miss Price threatened him with a pair of scissors, scratched his face and kicked him in the thigh and stomach, police reports said.

The patrolman required treatment at the Kingston Hospital Emergency Room after Miss Price was subdued, according to police reports.

Fed Boss Admits Failure on $$ Goal

UPI

The Federal Reserve, accused of contributing to high unemployment by restraining the nation's money supply, really doesn't have that much control over the economy, Fed Chairman Arthur F. Burns says.

Burns admitted Thursday in testimony before the Senate Budget Committee that the Fed had failed to achieve its goal of increasing by 5 to 7 percent the amount of money in circulation in cash and in checking accounts.

Later, in a regular weekly report, the Federal Reserve of New York said the nation's money supply continued to decline, falling 0.1 percent to a four-week average of $284.4 billion.

Critics of the Fed claim that the Fed has not tried hard enough to pump money into the nation's sagging economy and that its failure to meet even its own goals has prolonged the recession and made it more severe.

The money supply, many economists say, needs to be increased faster to make more money available for business expansion, which would create jobs and help spur economic recovery, prolonged and intensified the recession.

Burns told the Senate committee, however, the Fed's influence was vastly overstated.

"We don't control the money supply," he said. "After that it all depends on the banks and the private economy."

In a related development pointing to lower interest rates, the Fed said loan demand at major New York banks fell $424 million this week after increasing $181 million last week and $504 million a year ago.

Loan demand normally shrinks in a recession as businesses cut back in their borrowing for expansion. But at the same time, it means the prime interest rate for business loans will decline even further than it has in recent weeks.

The nation's largest commercial bank, Bank of America of San Francisco, last week lowered its prime to 7-3/4 per-cent. The prime had been as high as 12 percent last fall.

In other developments:

—The four U.S. automakers said early March sales came within 3 percent of matching last year's energy-depressed levels. But they still were at a 14-year low. GM's sales were up 23 percent and Chrysler's were up 1 percent, but Ford Motor's sales were down 35 percent and American Motor's 22 percent.

—Libbey-Owens-Ford Co., a major supplier to GM, said it is canceling a planned two-week layoff of 4,000 glass workers because of "recent optimism" about auto production.

—Despite a slump in car sales, retail sales rose 1 percent last week over the prior week and 7 percent over a year ago, the Commerce Department said. The yearly gain actually represents a decline in volume when inflation of 12 percent is taken into account.

—General Electric said it is idling for one week 11,000 of its 12,000 production workers at its Louisville, Ky., appliance plant because of the "sales lag stemming from the current economic situation."

—The Pillsbury Co. reduced prices an average 10 percent on 27 biscuit and roll items sold in dairy cases. "We're giving up some profitability in the hope that volume will make up the difference," said James R. Peterson, Pillsbury president.

$31 Billion Tax Cut In Senate Panel Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee appears headed for approval of tax cuts in excess of $31 billion including forgiveness of up to $2,000 in income taxes for those who buy homes between April 1 and Dec. 31 this year.

Senate Democrats voted unanimously Thursday to delay their March 21 Easter recess if necessary to send the bill to President Ford, and thus to speed 1974 tax rebates to all taxpayers in May and early June.

Pushing hard to meet this tight legislative schedule, the Finance Committee prepared to work this weekend if need be to complete its revisions of a House-passed $21.3 billion tax cut bill which contains 1974 rebates of $100 to $200 for almost all taxpayers plus 1975 tax cuts.

In an effort to spur the sagging housing industry, the committee tentatively voted a huge tax break to those who buy a new or used home, or a mobile home, during the last nine months of this year — a 5 percent tax credit on the purchase price up to a maximum $2,000 credit which would be subtracted from the taxes owed by April 15, 1976.

The housing tax credit was not in the House bill, and it is uncertain whether it would be accepted by the House in a conference committee which will be called later to iron out differences in the House and Senate bills.

Other tentative changes made by the committee Thursday would weigh the 1975 tax cuts more heavily toward low and moderate income families with children and give a bigger break than the House bill to middle income persons who itemize deductions.

Finance Committee chairman Russell Long, D-La., said the committee probably would approve a bill in excess of $31.5 billion and he expected the Senate to add more when it reached the floor.

However, most of the increases apparently will be in 1975 tax cuts. The committee Thursday rejected a move to increase the maximum 1974 tax rebate from $200 to $500. All of the rebate increase would have gone to those making more than $20,000. Other increase attempts were expected.

Two other major tentative decisions were made by the committee Thursday:

—Low and moderate income taxpayers could choose a $200 tax credit in lieu of the $750 personal exemption for each member of the family. This proposal, by Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., would benefit mainly families with children who have taxable income of $16,000 or less. Initially the committee voted to enact the Mondale proposal in lieu of the House's increase in the standard deduction, but indicated it might take both measures.

—Low income working families with children would get a cash payment of up to $400 from the government even if they paid no tax. An estimated 7 million families would receive 10 percent of their earned income up to a maximum of $4,000 income.

Hubert Accepts IRS Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., has accepted an Internal Revenue Service ruling and will pay back taxes on the nearly $200,000 he deducted for giving away his vice-presidential papers.

Humphrey announced Thursday he would not appeal an IRS auditor's ruling that disallowed the deductions.

He had deducted $199,153 from his federal income tax for donating the papers to the Minnesota Historical Society.

The former vice president will have to pay taxes on the disallowed deductions — taken between 1969 and 1972 — plus 6 percent interest payments.

Humphrey has not received a bill from the IRS, and a spokesman said: "I can't even give you a ballpark figure" on the amount he must pay.

Humphrey's writoff was invalidated because of a ruling that disallows deductions for donations that impose restrictions.

In a statement, Humphrey said "restrictions on access were necessary for a period, simply because these papers contain personal correspondence with heads of state, classified information as defined by federal law, and certain other personal and confidential documents."

Humphrey has a contract with the Minnesota Historical Society which restricts public access to the papers for 25 years from the date the agreement was signed in 1966 — midway through Humphrey's vice presidential term. Under the contract, scholars and others must get Humphrey's permission to inspect the papers.

The IRS began auditing after Humphrey disclosed in December 1973 he claimed the deductions and planned to claim another $110,322 on future tax returns.

"The only issue was the restriction on access," Humphrey said. "The papers were all delivered within the terms of the law."

Humphrey's case was not similar to former President Richard Nixon's tax troubles.

In Nixon's case, the IRS denied the deductions for donations of his papers to the National Archives because the deed had been backdated to evade a 1969 law which outlawed the tax deduction. The decision cost Nixon nearly $500,000, including interest.

Kissinger

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is off once again on a round of "shuttle diplomacy" in the Middle East, interspersed with a side trip to Turkey to try to settle problems there. This focuses renewed interest on what might be called the Kissinger phenomenon.

The secretary's prestige has clearly declined somewhat in recent times. While he still enjoys unparalleled attention from the news media, some of this attention is beginning to turn against him. For this he is partly to blame.

Kissinger has brought back to the workings of international politics an energetic and consistent interest in negotiation. He will take no part in a strategy of merely letting things take their course. Perhaps for that reason more than any other has the situation in the Middle East remained relatively stable, with further negotiated settlement on the horizon.

Many observers feel, however, that Kissinger has too much control over American foreign policy. Some members of Congress have been arguing that such control is undemocratic, indicative of the trend in U.S. government over the past 40 years, and that it must be curbed.

A further assessment is beginning to form. Much of what the secretary has done can be assessed in positive terms, but at the same time there are indications of an unwillingness to accept blame for failures. Kissinger has hinted more than once that when such failures occur they can be attributed to congressional or public meddling, press snooping, or intransigent foreign leaders.

Kissinger's warnings that the fall of Cambodia would be the fault of Congress, that the failure of the U.S.-Soviet trade bill was caused by Sen. Henry Jackson's insistence on a tie-in with Jewish emigration, are two notable illustrations of this tendency. The petulant threat of resignation over the wiretapping disclosures suggests that unyielding ego is almost as much an element in Kissinger's foreign policy as his wit, urbanity and skillful diplomacy.

It might be well for the secretary to take a vacation, if not in the literal sense then at least in the sense of adopting a lower profile. When too much attention is focused on a public figure, tougher scrutiny may take place where casual observation existed before. This process has already set in, and Kissinger's incessant travel only feeds it.

"THE PRIME RATE IS FALLING! THE PRIME RATE IS FALLING!"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In their zeal to nail crooked narcotics agents, federal inspectors have used Watergate-style tactics, which have violated the laws they sought to enforce.

One detective, accused of taking a bribe in a dubious case, was told he had three choices: He could cooperate with the inspectors, take his chances on a prison term or commit suicide. He shot himself to death after pleading his innocence in a suicide note.

We have uncovered several elaborate hoaxes, which were developed by the inspectors to entrap agents. Sometimes, the inspectors actually instigated crimes to determine whether suspected lawmen would take bribes.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Enticing Suspected Narcotics Agents

The overzealous inspectors used bugged informants, phony identification papers and other tactics reminiscent of the notorious White House plumbers.

The questionable cases seem to center upon Andy Tartaglino, the soft-spoken, bespectacled former No. 2 man at the Drug Enforcement Administration. It was Tartaglino, for example, who made the fatal suicide suggestion.

His supporters describe him as a "brilliant and innovative" investigator. But we have learned that his tactics have forced the government to drop the prosecution of at least half a dozen cases.

In one case, a narcotics agent was provided with a phony identity and two loaded pistols. He was purposely arrested on a firearms charge. Then he bribed a New York assistant district attorney to help him beat the rap.

Judge Henry Friendly threw out the case on jurisdictional grounds. But he also scolded Tartaglino and the prosecutors for attempting "to set up a federal crime."

Declared the judge: "We do not at all share the government's pride in its achievement of causing the bribery of a state district attorney by a scheme which involved lying to New York police officers and perjury before New York judges and grand jurors."

The court records in another case charge that an underworld informant, working with Tartaglino, "violated the federal narcotics laws without being arrested for the violation and was arrested for other criminal acts but not prosecuted."

The informant was used to get evidence against two narcotics agents. Tartaglino's conduct of the investigation, according to our sources, led to a suspended sentence for one of the defendants.

The mild-mannered Tartaglino, while acknowledging his role in these investigations, told us the prosecutors made the decision to go ahead.

We sent our associate Bob Owens to New York City to check out the suicide case, which involved a New York police detective named Joe Nunziata. Ironically, Nunziata wasn't the target of the investigation. Tartaglino merely wanted to bring pressure on him to cooperate.

At government expense, Tartaglino flew a former informant, Carlo Dandolo, to the United States from Italy. Dandolo was given 12 grams of rare, pure heroin belonging to the government. By a complex set of circumstances, he was arrested and wound up in the custody of Nunziata and his partner.

Tartaglino instructed Dandolo to attempt to bribe the officers. The first attempt, say our sources, was rejected. But subsequently, they accepted the bribe. They were playing along with Dandolo, they claimed, in order to make a case against him.

But Tartaglino, according to our sources, brought intense pressure on Nunziata to cooperate with the investigation. Our sources said Tartaglino told Nunziata his police career was finished, winding up with the three options. Nunziata could cooperate, face jail or commit suicide. He sat down and wrote a three-page letter in longhand.

"I dedicated my life to my job," he wrote. "I've also ignored my family to a point of disgust on my part . . . I have two children whom I love and a wife I adore."

The charge that he had accepted a bribe from Carlo Dandolo, he declared, was an "insult."

"Now, though, I know it was all a hoax on (the government's) part, to make it appear as if we accepted a gratuity from C.D. That, my friends, is an insult so severe that I will not allow this embarrassment to affect this job or anyone I've ever been associated with."

They had fed Dandolo a line, Nunziata said, in order to nail him. "Any conversation that was had with C.D. was total lies . . . I hate to disappoint anyone, but it was all lies. I must've really been convincing, that would only prove how effective I was in my job."

Nunziata said he "had been driven to this point of no return. Nothing was done, was done with criminal intent." Then he killed himself.

Footnote: Tartaglino confirmed that he had raised the suicide option, but said the version given by our sources was "out of context." Another witness, who heard Tartaglino's diatribe against Nunziata, told us: "In view of what happened, it sounds more sinister than what the facts would support." But other sources said Tartaglino's handling of Nunziata was severe.

"I'm beginning to find your questions 'questionable!'"

Inside Report

Israel's Staggering Defense Budget

JERUSALEM—The exorbitant cost of raising its military power to a point 50 percent higher than before the October war of 1973 in such major categories as battle tanks has placed Israel in a precarious economic crisis, by far the worst in a 27-year history studded with financial problems.

One predictable impact: an attack on high military spending by worried economists and planners in Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government. Indeed, there is reason to believe that Rabin himself, who was chief of the general staff in the brilliantly fought six-day war of 1967, is convinced that the $4 billion defense budget — approximately one-half the gross national product — is far too high and is quietly trying to cut it.

"There is a huge argument now going on inside our government about the size of the military budget," a top government economist told us. "What we desperately need is more civilian control, an oversight committee to study real defense needs. We need a control mechanism to rein in Peres" (Defense Minister Shimon Peres).

Peres himself intends to meet this defense-cut campaign head on. He told us that even if a second-stage Israeli withdrawal from Sinai succeeds and Egypt pledges some form of non-belligerency, the defense budget for 1976 would still remain at the just-under $4 billion level set for 1975.

Given the battle-front conditioning of four major wars since independence, the voters might follow Peres and not the budget-cutters if the issue goes public. The economist now pushing for a civilian oversight committee half conceded that fact.

"We are willing to sacrifice our well-being if we have to," he told us, "but not our being."

The sacrifice of well-being is pervasive and harsh, and Rabin has shown extraordinary political courage in forcing his country to do what has to be done, given the exorbitant level of defense spending. There is only one word to describe his policy, which was drafted by economists on the staff of Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz and the bank of Israel (which both controls the monetary system and acts as economic adviser to the government). That word is — brutal.

The object is to squeeze purchasing power out of the civilian economy down to but not quite including the last drop. The devices are familiar: let prices soar and sop up what little non-essentials like sugar, bread, milk — by high taxes. Then, to reduce the $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit, shift investment out of the domestic economy into export (a necessary step, but likely to double the 3.4 per cent unemployment rate by next fall).

Late last year the Israeli pound was devalued by 43 percent and government subsidies to hold prices down were ruthlessly reduced. One result: sugar tripled in price overnight, bread doubled, meat and milk soared 80 percent. But the hardest Rabin decision still lies ahead, when the next cost-of-living allowance — direct government payments to compensate workers for lost purchasing power the preceding six months — comes due.

If Rabin hangs tough, workers will have to forfeit the allowance in June, despite the precipitous increase in the cost of living. The national labor union (Histadrut) is already battling Rabin over his austerity program. That battle will become war if the June allowances don't materialize.

But if Rabin caves, and the allowances are paid, the crucial purpose of his program — to wring out every last Israeli pound of non-essential civilian spending — will be defeated, and a new inflation spiral will start.

Thus, the bottom half of this hard-working population — Oriental Jews with impoverished economic and cultural backgrounds — is going to suffer bitterly. "They are now consuming every penny they earn," one economic expert told us. No wonder Rabin's finance minister turned ashen when warned that Israel's request for $2.59 billion as a gift from the U.S., where unemployment is nearing 10 percent, won't get the usual "anything you want" from Congress. Since every dollar cut from that request will be a dollar out of Israel's spartan living standard, that would leave one recourse — cut the untouchable defense budget.

Jim Bishop: Reporter
March Is Full of Goodies

This is a month of goodies for me — the semi-annual chest X-ray; the computation of income tax; and a wedding. I'm not losing a daughter, I know; I'm losing my mind.

Candidly, I wish the government would take every dime I have in one swoop and mail a suitable allowance to me once a month. My wife feels that this is not logical. Uncle Sam, she says, knows less about the uses of money than she does. In that event, I nominate Kelly Bishop as Secretary of the Treasury and guardian of the petty cash drawer.

For years my tax has been executed (the perfect word!) by Mr. Maurice Greenbaum of Greenbaum, Wolfe and Ernst. Maurie is one of those folksy foxes who opens by asking how the missus and the kids are, and closes by reading the figure on the bottom line.

Ironically, the missus and the little ones do well until the old man hears how much he owes in taxes. At once the ladies in my house begin to tiptoe around me, whispering, turning off electric lights, using one car when three would do and making bologna skin sandwiches.

The austerity lasts two weeks, long enough for me to emerge from deep shock. I am never, never completely out of shock — I convalesce to something akin to a nervous breakdown. I jump when bells ring — door or phone. A letter with no return address sends me into a spasm.

The chest X-ray is quick yes or no. I have an old friend at Poland Springs, Maine, Mr. Bill McMor-row, who sustained a laryngectomy many years ago. He worries about my cigarettes.

I don't worry about them because I don't enjoy them. Like girl friends of decades ago, they have lost something. Still, I smoke because I cannot think of anything else to do with my hands and mouth. No suggestions, please.

The X-ray itself doesn't worry me a bit, unless you count the centuries between the time that Dr. Louis Bennett takes the pictures and the time he pops his handsome face into the dressing room and says, "It looks clear to me." When I hear those words, I realize that I have not been breathing for a long time. In gratitude, I light a cigarette.

If, someday, he says, "Well, now, get dressed and stop into the office. I want to have a little chat with you," I will pop the whole package of cigarettes in my mouth and light them. If you detect a smidge of fear in this, you are one smart cookie.

The wedding — well, that's my darling Karen. She will be a radiant bride on the 15th, with a great big beautiful life ahead of her, and I will be bankrupt, with a ghastly life behind me.

Why in God's name a father must have four daughters escapes me. This is the third to be married, and I have yet to meet a son-in-law who offered me a stick of gum. It's a small wedding — you know, small church and a reception at home for two small families who eat like cossacks. The fabulous Marcella, who loves food, will bring it and eat it.

We also need gowns and decorations. For God's sake, don't forget a rock combo. If there is anything my ears need less than a rock combo, it has to be a hydrogen bomb. But we are having a rock combo. For one day, we may have to put the German shepherd in a place where he cannot bite musicians.

The guitar and boom-boom kids get paid more per hour than I, and they want their money before the first discordant note is struck. When they take a "break," which one would pray will be frequently, Max Lewis will play some old ragtime on the piano. Mr. L. plays excellent jazz, schmaltzy stuff, although at times he confuses a wedding with a bar mitzvah and riffs through some hora music.

When the last drinker has departed, Karen will be Mrs. Paul Says, which I will have to practice. She too. Then we will be left with one daughter, the brilliant and gorgeous Kathi.

Getting her married may, I suspect, be analogous to working out a peace treaty between the Arabs and the Jews. She is pretty, and flirtatious, but her idea of the ideal man is impossible. She told me what he had to be like and I said, "There was only one of those, and he died on a cross 2,000 years ago."

Still, the month of March will be exciting around here. All I expect in return for my part in these little goodies is to have the portable oxygen tank at my bedside. When it is all over, and I finish signing all the check, my beautiful wife and I will go off on a trip alone.

Like a week at the candy store around the corner.

Paltz Single Sex Dormitory Facing Elimination, but...

NEW PALTZ

A sign of the times—the last single sex dormitory at SUNY at New Paltz may very well follow the mastodon to extinction.

There is but one dormitory remaining on campus that caters exclusively to women. There are no all male buildings.

That one dorm, Bliss Hall, presently houses 125 women. It was designed for 200.

There are some women who want to see Bliss Hall retain its current status. One of them is graduate student Annie Lubin, who has been engaged in conversation with several college authorities in an effort to head off the dorms demise.

She told the Freeman that the dorm director told residents this week that the building would be closed in September, and the women would have to find rooms in one of the other sexually integrated housing facilities.

She admitted it was the least requested dorm on campus and she understood the economic motivation to close down a dormitory. She also pointed out that Bliss Hall has no project to help support it, something she said was unique on campus.

An effort by the Freeman to speak with Gordon Dillahun, associate dean of students and director of student housing, proved fruitless as he declined to speak with the press.

Alan Herbert, college public relations officer, stated that the college had "no plans to close it." He stated, instead, that officials are "surveying the interest" in keeping Bliss hall open.

Herbert declared that the "whole idea of a single sex dorm" was apparently being rejected by the majority of students as most had opted for one of two sexually integrated dormitory patterns.

The choice the women of Bliss Hall would have in September if that dorm is closed at the end of the term would be one of these arrangements: either occupying a four-bedroom and one bath suite with other women or living on a uni-sex corridor, both in dorms with men.

Ms. Lubin said that many parents want single sex dormitories for their children, and said she feels that at least one such dormitory should remain available as an option for those who so desire.

She said she has contacted Lawrence Quilty, chairman of the University Council, who subsequently arranged for a meeting Thursday night through President Stanley Coffman with Gordon Dillahun on the students' grievance.

War Declared on 'Paperhangers' Businessmen's Seminar

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

Bad check losses, estimated at $700 million in 1973, rose to $1 billion last year. What the businessman can do to protect himself against "Paperhanging" was the topic of the crime prevention seminar sponsored by the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association Thursday night in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Speakers from the Small Business Administration (SBA) local law enforcement agencies, and the Rondout National Bank reiterated one time, "Know your endorser," as a means of preventing losses to bad checks.

Jerry Berman, training team supervisor for the New York District office of SBA, told the audience of local businessmen that "Business crimes combined account for $15 billion annually." A tax rebate of that amount could turn the recession around. Berman noted that supermarkets, frequent targets of bad check "paperhangers," frequently operate on profit margins as low as one percent and that the loss of $1 to a bad check means the store has to make an additional $100 in sales just to break even on that transaction.

Berman introduced a 15-minute film, "The Paperhangers," an amusing film with a serious underlying message for the retail merchant who accepts checks as payments. The film described methods used by professional bad check passers and described methods that can be used to cut losses to them. Included in the movie was a secretly filmed episode in which a man with a record of several bad check convictions demonstrated (with police cooperation) how easy it was for him to pass a spurious check in a market he had never visited before.

Albert E. Teetsel, assistant cashier of Rondout National Bank, described training of bank employees in handling check cashings, including several methods that can be used by merchants too. Noting that forgery is on the increase in this area (5,230 bad checks last year) he showed a film, "Battle of Wits," depicting the methods used by forgers to steal, alter and cash travelers checks. Teetsel also noted that senior citizens are often victimized by crooks and told of arrangements being made in some places for government checks to be mailed directly to recipient's bank account to prevent theft.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt discussed the legal aspects of bad check crimes. His office receives about 50 complaints a week but does not prosecute in most cases because the passer usually makes good when arrested. Vogt, warning that his office "is not a bill collecting agency," added that in some cases his office wants to prosecute because the accused has a history of bad checks and asked merchants for their cooperation in such cases.

Carl Rea, chairman of the Uptown businessmen's Crime Seminar Committee, said that further seminars are planned. The next, tentatively scheduled for early May, will consider juvenile crime. Rea introduced Thomas Johnson, director of the Juvenile Aid Bureau of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, who briefly described his bureau's work. Johnson warned that juvenile crime is increasing in the area and said law enforcement officials find themselves dealing with a new breed of juvenile criminal with no sense of responsibility.

The session closed with the four speakers forming a panel to reply to questions from the audience, which dealt mostly with methods available to the retail merchant to cut down on bad check losses.

Costumed for Anniversary

In preparation for the 125th anniversary celebration of the High Woods Reformed Church Sunday, March 16, members and friends are donning costumes of the 1850's. Dressed for the 10a.m. service are Elder Robert E. Haines (L) lay supply pastor; Lynn Wolven, David Wolven; Mrs. Etta Wolven, church secretary and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, minister emeritus of Old Dutch Church and minister of the High Woods church from 1933 to 1935. The public may attend the commemorative service and join in the costume portion of the celebration. (Freeman photo)

Rosendale Clerk's Decision Is Upheld

ROSENDALE
Rosendale Village Clerk Kathleen Mihm has received some heavy criticism from disgruntled thwarted candidates because of her rejection of election petitions for the March 18 polling, but a State Supreme Court judge has upheld her action in the only court test of it.

Village Attorney Francis Murray said Thursday that he had received a decision from Supreme Court Justice John T. Casey of Troy, finding against Mary H. Conlin, who hoped to run as an independent for mayor.

Mrs. Conlin had brought the suit against Mrs. Mihm, charging that Mrs. Mihm had improperly rejected Mrs. Conlin's nominating petitions. Casey found, in the decision dated March 12, that Mrs. Mihm had acted properly.

Mrs. Mihm also rejected two other sets of petitions, those of George Montgomery for mayor and William Guldry Jr. for trustee. She rejected all three sets of petitions on the grounds that they were improperly filled out according to the election law.

Montgomery and Guldry threatened court action, but Murray said they had not followed through, and the time limit for it had passed.

The Conlin-Mihm case was argued before Casey in a special term of Supreme Court in Kingston last Friday.

Mrs. Conlin is also suing Mrs. Mihm, and Republican candidates Harriet Mulligan for mayor and Lloyd Gersback for trustee. Mrs. Conlin is contending that the Republicans should not be on the ballot because the caucus was improperly held, Murray said.

That case was scheduled to be argued in Monticello today before State Supreme Court Justice Harold J. Hughes.

Saugerties Mayor Cites Accomplishments

SAUGERTIES
Accomplishments in the areas of fiscal responsibility, community development, and operational efficiency have been cited by Saugerties Mayor Vernon "Joe" Benjamin as his reasons for seeking re-election.

On the job for two years as mayor, Benjamin recalls, "At my first meeting two years ago, not being familiar with parliamentary procedure, I was in a tizzy, but the people were nice to me and I was able to weather the storm and assume the numerous responsibilities a job like this entails."

He noted that the village had reinstituted the policy of banking principal funds each year to gain interest and revenue for the village, with $100,000 set aside last year returning more than $1,800 to the village.

The first budget in his administration resulted in no raise of taxes, and the second had taxes rise $8.68 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Some Department of Public Works actions included the purchase of two trucks. "That's staying pretty close to the book for a village our size," he commented.

A new pipeline and street were installed at Beckley Street last summer, constructed entirely by the DPW, and the village is maintaining its dump "in the best condition it ever was in," he asserted. He said the village did not go along with a proposal to merge with the Town of Saugerties landfill operation "because of the extra cost to villagers."

Benjamin said that once early in his administration he was forced to close down Cantine's Mill on Partition Street because of pollution. The plant is now in operation under new management. "We are encouraging its use as a source of employment" he said. "I've seen people come and go down there and I've felt bad about it because my family worked there. Now they have a successful operation and they're not polluting. The new mill people have been very cooperative."

One of Benjamin's original campaign promises was to revitalize the South Side. One of his first acts as mayor was to move against the owners of the old Diamond Mills in that area.

"They were behind $6,000 in taxes when we came into office," he explained. "We started proceedings and now taxes are paid in full. In addition, the owner, Louis Lazer of New York, has begun work cleaning up the area. Huge iron boilers have been removed and we expect to gradually see the buildings taken down."

The village also succeeded in having a dilapidated building on Cross Street destroyed as well as part of a building on West Bridge Street, and is proceeding against a dilapidated structure on Livingston Street.

Benjamin said he was amazed at first at the legal entanglements that arise when a village attempts to beautify in this way. "Results are often slow," he stated, "but they are results."

In other areas, a new fire truck has been ordered, for Snyder Hose. Benjamin said the purchase was not initiated during his administration, and has "long been recognized as needed."

Construction is expected to begin in June on the addition to the village sewerage treatment facility to take in the Barclay Heights and Glasco areas. "We have been accused of delaying action on this contract, and we did," he said, pointing to the 25 meetings that resulted in about 20 changes in the contract. "This was a state mandated project, but it wasn't going to be jammed down our throats." He noted that, in the long run, the village will not pay for any of the costs because of increased revenue coming from the new districts.

Benjamin, the village's first designated Outstanding Citizen, is a lifelong resident of Saugerties who was recently elected to his fifth term as Little League president. He was chairman of this year's United Way campaign, serves as attendance officer for the Saugerties school district, is a former chief of the Saugerties Fire Department, and has held numerous other positions in the village.

Candidate Hits Money Matters

NEW PALTZ
John G. Vett realized that "money matters seem to take precedence in these times of recession, inflation and unemployment" and he suggests some steps the Village of New Paltz can take to keep the dollar in line.

Vett is a candidate for mayor in Tuesday's general election.

He suggested that the villageboard incorporate public requests more seriously in the budget making process, calling for a preliminary budget hearing and another hearing once the board has formulated its budget. He also commented that the operating and capital expenditures parts of the budget "should be presented and discussed separately."

Vett said, "The fact that money has been budgeted does not mean that it has to be spent. We must practice budgetary savings wherever possible. Only by the most frugal spending practices will we be able to keep property taxes from rising."

He stated that "it is time for the village and the town authorities to begin more talks together concerning the consolidation of more services. I believe we have made a brave new step forward with the police consolidation." In other areas, Vett said he favored pedestrian crosswalks in the village.

How to Strike Non-Stop Speakers Silent

By Abigail Van Buren

©1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We had a couple over last week, and when one started to talk, the spouse interrupted to talk about something entirely different. Both continued talking to both my husband and me in this manner throughout the entire evening. At one point in the evening, the husband and I were talking, and his wife interrupted by shouting my name: then she addressed a question to me which was completely unrelated to the subject I was discussing with her husband. I cannot do justice to two conversations at one time, especially when each is trying to be heard over the other. This lack of consideration for each other strikes me as being very rude, but I may be wrong.

By the end of the evening I was completely exhausted. What does one do when he finds himself in this kind of predicament?

College Basketball Roundup May In Uniform For No. 1 Indiana

By UPI

The rest of the nation's colleges took heart when undefeated Indiana lost All-America Scott May with a broken wrist, which it was hoped would bring the Hoosiers back to the pack, but the 6-foot-7 forward may play after all.

"He'll be dressed with that special cast," Indiana coach Bobby Knight said of May. May will not start, but his presence will be a psychological lift for the Hoosiers and a bit worrisome for their opponent, Texas-El Paso.

May did play 20 seconds in the Hoosier's final game of the season against Michigan, which completed a 29-0 regular season for Indiana and ran its winning streak to 32 games.

Indiana is favored to win the NCAA tournament by the oddsmakers, with UCLA the second choice, Maryland third and North Carolina fourth.

UTEP (20-5) finished the regular with the nation's best defensive statistics for the third straight year, but Indiana is generally regarded as the best defensive team in the nation.

In the other first-round game at Lexington, Ky., Ohio Valley Conference champ Middle Tennessee (26-4) meets Pacific-8 Conference runnerup Oregon State (18-10).

Saturday's other Midwest doubleheader has Central Michigan (20-5) meeting Georgetown (17-9) and Kentucky (22-4) playing Marquette (22-3) in one of the day's top games.

In the West, UCLA (23-3) rate a solid favorite over Big Ten runnerup Michigan (19-7) at Pullman, Wash., and, in the other game there, Montana (20-6) meets Utah State (21-5).

Alabama (22-4) will have to pay the price for its upset loss to Auburn in the Crimson Tide's final regular season game, which cost them the Southeastern Conference championship. As a result, the Crimson Tide were placed in the West and will have to face WAC chap Arizona State (24-3) on its home court. In the other game at Tempe, Nevada-Las Vegas plays San Diego State (14-12).

The Midwest doubleheaders at Lubbock, Tex., and Tulsa, Okla. feature Maryland against Creighton and Louisville against Rutgers in intersecional battles. Maryland (23-4) meets Creighton (20-6) in a doubleheader at Lubbock which also includes Texas A&M (20-6) in aganst Cincinnati (21-5), which has won 15 straight games.

Louisville (24-2) faces a Rutgers team that has compeled a 22-6 record without a strong center. However, the Scarlet Knights have relied on the quickness and outside shooting of its other four staarters—Phil Sellers, Mike Dabney, Ed Jordan and Hollis Copeland—to offset its weakness in the middle. Consequently, Rutgers has been erratic, but can be extremely effective when hitting from the outside.

In the other game at Tulsa, Kansas (19-7) meets Notre Dame (18-8), which has beaten the Jayhawks once already this season.

In the East, Atlantic Coast Conference champion North Carolina (21-7) has the advantage of playing in Charlotte, N.C., when it meets New Mexico State (20-6) in wutg Furman (23-6) playing Boston Coliere (20-7) in the other game.

In Philadelphia, two teams enjoy a home court advantage, as Syracuse (19-7) plays LaSalle (21-6) and Kansas State (18-8) faces Penn (23-4) in the Palestra.

Three Former Champs in NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three former National Invitation tournament champions will be in action in Saturday's first-round games.

Providence and St. John's each are multiple winners, while Southern Illinois won the title in 1967 behind the tremendous performance of Walt Frazier.

Providence, which won the NIT in 1961 and 1963, has the toughest assignment of the three one-time champs Saturday, facing Clemson in the afternoon doubleheader.

The Tigers registered victories over North Carolina State and Maryland during the ACC regular season enroute to a 17-10 record. The Tigers are led by 7-foot center Wayne Rollins and freshman guard Skip Wise, the team's leading scorer.

Providence is also a young team, with sophomore guard Joe Hassett the team's top player. Other key men for the Friars (17-10) are freshman Bruce Campbell and Billy Eason.

St. John's, which has won the NIT a record four times, plays Lafayette (22-5) in Saturday night's session. The Redmen, led by guard Mel Utley and freshman forward George Johnson, Posted a 19-8 record this season, while Lafayette is that rarity which competes without athletic scholarships.

In the other half of the Saturday night doubleheader, Southern Illinois takes on Pittsburgh. The Salukis came into Madison Square Garden as the first designated "small college" team to participate in the NIT and left with the championship trophy.

The Salukis are now an NCAA Division I team and compiled an 18-8 record, powered by center Joe Meriweather. Meriweather, considered one of the best centers in the country this season, has averaged 20 points and 11 rebounds a game.

Manhattan (13-11) meets Massachusetts (18-7) in Saturday afternoon's other game.

There are a pair of first-round twinbills also scheduled for Sunday.

Sunday afternoon, South Carolina (18-8) plays Connecticut (18-8) and Holy Cross (19-7) plays Princeton (18-8). Memphis State (20-6) faces Oral Roberts (19-7) and Oregon (18-8) meets St. Peter's (15-11) in the Sunday night doubleheader.

Drake Upsets Southern Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — It was pure agony for Gus Williams, sitting on the bench Thursday night and knowing he could do nothing to prevent 12th-ranked Southern California from being upset by Drake in the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament.

With painful sprained ligaments in his right foot, the brilliant Southern Cal guard was relegated to the role of cheerleader when his teammates lost to torrid shooting Drake, 80-70, in the tourney's first round. Arizona, ranked 17th in the nation, turned back scrappy East Carolina, 94-78, in the first game of the tourney Thursday night.

"You better believe it hurt, missing the last game of my college career," said Williams, rated by coach Bob Boyd as the best guard in Southern Cal history.

"It was the only USC game I ever sat out," Williams added, "but I tested the foot out before the game and I knew I'd only be hurting the team if I went out and tried to limp around on it."

Boyd declined to blame the defeat on the loss of Williams. "I don't want to say anything to take away from the game Drake played," he said.

"It's just unfortunate our season had to end this way, particularly for Gus, because he has been such a key man for us," Boyd said. Last year, Williams was the leading scorer in the initial Commissioners tourney at St. Louis and steered the Trojans into the finals before they lost to Indiana, 85-60.

But Thursday night, Southern Cal succumbed to a Drake team that hit a spectacular 75 per cent of its 28 shots in the first half.

Larry Haralson and Andy Graham, a pair of 6-foot-9 seniors, headed the Drake attack with 20 points apiece. For Haralson, a Louisville native, it was a special thrill to do so well in his hometown.

Giant Slalom Winner

Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark makes sharp turn as he heads for victory in men's Giant Slalom at World Cup competition in Sun Valley, Idaho.

Orioles Lose, Win

U P I

The Baltimore Orioles figure they were winners Thursday even though they were losers.

The Orioles dropped a 7-1 decision to the Kansas City Royals but got a one-run, twohit, five-inning performance from Jim Palmer, their Cy Young Award winning pitcher of 1973.

Palmer slumped to a 7-12 record in 1974 and is regarded as the key man in the Orioles' pennant chances this season. Inasmuch as the New York Yankees strengthened themselves considerably with the addition of pitcher Jim Hunter from the Oakland A's and outfielder Bobby Bonds from the San Francisco Giants.

"I pitched better than my 7-12 record indicates last season," says Palmer. "But I realize I have lost some velocity from my fast ball and I don't have as much margin for error as in the past."

Shortstop Frank White had four hits, including a homer and a double, and Amos Otis hit a two-run homer to lead the Royals to their second victory in six exhibition games. Dennis Leonard, who worked two scoreless innings in relief, was the winning pitcher.

Elsewhere on the exhibition circuit: Ed Goodson's two-run double with two out in the 10th inning lifted the Giants to a 6-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians and spoiled Frank Robinson's debut as baseball's first black manager...Strikeout king Nolan Ryan of the California Angels is suffering with a slight strain of his right calf but the ailment is not believed serious.

Lew Krausse, attempting a comeback with the A's, was hammered for two homers during the world champion's 10-8 triumph over Arizona State...Hank Aaron, baseball's alltime home run king, delivered a sacrifice fly as the Milwaukee Brewers scored a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. The big blows for the Brewers, however, were homers by Johnny Briggs and Darrell Porter.

Fred Stanley drove in the decisive run with a single in the eighth inning as the New York Yankees shaded the New York Mets 7-6 with outfielder Walt Williams playing second base for the Yankees...Danny Cater and Juan Beniquez homered in the Boston Red Sox' 9-2 romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

FRANK ROBINSON MANAGES FIRST GAME

Parent Was Ready Penguins Were Not

By U P I

Philadelphia Flyers goaltender Bernie Parent was ready mentally and the Pittsburgh Penguins, who just the day before clinched their first playoff berth in three years, were not.

Parent, who sat out the last five games with a thigh muscle injury, authored his 10th shutout of the season Thursday night in the Flyers' 6-0 win, giving him two less shutouts than he posted last season.

Parent proved to be a 12-goal difference between the two teams, as the Penguins won by six over the Flyers just five days earlier when Philadelphia had Wayne Stephenson guarding its net.

But Pittsburgh still was mathematically in jeopardy of missing the playoffs then and this time around it already had secured the third and final postseason berth in NHL Division 3.

"We woke up a little too late," said Pittsburgh center Syl Apps. "If we had played in the other two periods as we did in the third we might have done better."

Bill Barber and Gary Dornhoefer scored goals in the first 20 minutes and Ed Van Impe, Reg Leach and Dave Schultz blew the game open in the second period with goals to make it 5-0.

Bill Clement added his 19th of the year in the final period as the Flyers tightened up defensively to hold the Penguins to just two shots on net and insure the shutout.

"My leg felt completely better," said Parent, "it didn't bother me at all. The two weeks off really helped me mentally."

In the only other NHL game, Detroit tied Los Angeles 5-5.

In the World Hockey Association, Indianapolis nipped Toronto 5-4 and Phoenix battled New England to a 5-5 tie.

Laver Gains In WCT

Australian Rod Laver beat his countryman, Roy Emerson, 6-3, 6-1, Thursday and qualified for the quarterfinals of the World Championship Tennis Blue group tournament at Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States also won his way into the round of eight, defeating South African Andrew Pattison, 6-2, 6-3.

In other matches Thursday, Charles Passarelli of Puerto Rico beat Ove Bengtson of Sweden, 7-6, 6-4, and Thomas Koch of Brazil ousted Australian Allan Stone, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Brian Fairlie, Roscoe Tanner, Alex Metreveli and Ray Ruffles previously won their way into the quarterfinals.

At Munich, American Arthur Ashe crushed Hans Jurgen Pohmann of West Germany, 6-1, 6-3, to reach the quarterfinals of the WCT Green tournament. Bjorn Borg of Sweden, seeded second to Ashe, also had little trouble as he eliminated Dick Crealy of Australia, 6-4, 6-2.

In the WCT Red tournament at Landover, Md., top-seeded John Alexander needed three sets to beat Cliff Drysdale, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4. Two seeded players—No. 5 Harold Solomon and No. 6 Paul Gerken—were eliminated in the second round of the $60,000 event.

Pakistan's Haroon Rahim outbattled Solomon, a hometown favorite from Silver Spring, Md., in a close match that included two tiebreakers, 6-7, 7-6, 6-3.

Army Sets '76-'77 Slates

WEST POINT
Lafayette College and the University of Massachusetts have been added to Army's 1976 and 1977 football schedules to increase those respective slates to 11 games, Col. Jack Schuder, Director of Athletics at the U.S. Military Academy, announced today.

Army will play host to Lafayette on Sept. 11 to open the 1976 football season. Likewise, Massachusetts will be the opening opponent for the Cadets in 1977. Both games will be held at Michie Stadium.

Army and Lafayette have met on five previous occasions in a series which began in 1893. The Cadets have won four of the five encounters, including a 14-7 victory in the 1974 season opener.

Massachusetts will be appearing on the Army football schedule for the first time.

"We are very pleased to add both Lafayette and Massachusetts to our football schedule in 1976 and 1977," said Col. Schuder. "We have had a very good relationship with Lafayette in our previous meetings and I am sure that relationship will flourish. We have never played Massachusetts in football, but we feel they have made substantial strides with their football program and will be a very competitive opponent."

It's Armstrong-McCord, Not Nick and Johnny

MIAMI (UPI) — Everyone was expecting a Nicklaus-Miller superstar showdown this weekend, but what they're getting so far is Armstrong vs. McCord.

Wally Armstrong and Gary McCord, that is—two second-year PGA tour rabbits who share a one-shot lead going into today's second round of the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament after shooting four-under par 68's.

The Doral-Eastern marks just the third time this year Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this winter, and Jack Nicklaus, who hasn't won since last September, have played in the same tournament.

Neither golfer won in the previous two events—in fact neither challenged for the victory.

This time, Nicklaus is one shot off the pace set by Armstrong and McCord, at 69 tied with four other golfers, and Miller is four shots back after shooting an even par 72 over the 7,025-yard Doral

Blue Monster Course Thursday.

It looked for a while as though Nicklaus was going to run away and hide from everybody. He teed off on the 18th hole at five under par and at that time nobody was even close.

But the 18th hole at Doral has been rated the toughest finishing hole in golf, and it showed Nicklaus why as he turned in a double bogey six. "I turned something exceptional into a 69," Nicklaus bemoaned.

He pushed his drive to the right, and then hit a one-iron into the lake.

"It felt like a good shot, but I guess I pulled it," he said. Nicklaus had to take a drop, wedged to 35 feet and had to settle for a double bogey six and his 69.

Miller's problem was the wind. "I haven't had to play in the wind so long, it felt like I was playing the wrong sport," Miller said. "Every time I had to go into the wind, I was in trouble."

As for Armstrong and McCord, the two non-winners on the tour are not well known, but they have had their moments. Armstrong, who holds a master's degree in education from the University of Florida, had a second place finish in the Sahara Open last fall and McCord sports a sixth place finish in the Quad Cities Open in Iowa last year.

McCord admitted he had been playing badly this year, and he continued that way on his first nine holes. But then he caught fire for six birdies without a bogey on the more demanding back nine to shoot a convincing 30.

Armstrong was more consistent with six birdies and two bogeys and came in for praise after his round from Lee Trevino.

The merry Mexican, who was still very much in it after an erratic 70, said he knew Armstrong as one of the tour's hardest workers.

"What impresses me is a guy who goes out and works, and he really works on his game," said the winner of last week's Citrus Open at Orlando, Fla.

Trevino's game Thursday was much like McCord's. He started with a ballooning 39 but then came back with a 31. "I thought I was going to shoot a thousand out there—I went crazy," he said after his round.

"I've been rolling my putts real good," he said. "I feel that if I can hit the green, I can make the putt."

Trevino, last year's PGA tournament winner, had long birdie putts of 35, 25 and 20 feet.

LPGA Canceled at Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Ladies Professional Golf Association canceled the second richest tournament on its tour Thursday night, hours before it was scheduled to begin this morning.

It was canceled for a very good reason:

The sponsors couldn't come up with the $100,000 purse they promised.

"It was not unanimous but overwhelming that we not play," said Bud Erickson, the executive director of the LPGA, after a vote of the more than 100 players entered in the tournament.

The tournament's sponsor, the Gulf Coast Golf News, did not meet a 5 p.m. Thursday deadline to put up the money, the LPGA said.

Larry Flood, the Golf News owner, contended he had met "verbal" commitments of his contract.

But Carol Mann, the defending champion at the Houston event and also LPGA president, said she knew of the financial difficulties two weeks ago. She said negotiations continued without a hint of trouble but "when the deadline came and all he could offer was to pay in the future we called a meeting."

The vote not to play came at the meeting.

"It's really been bizarre," Miss Mann said. "It's an experience I'll never forget."

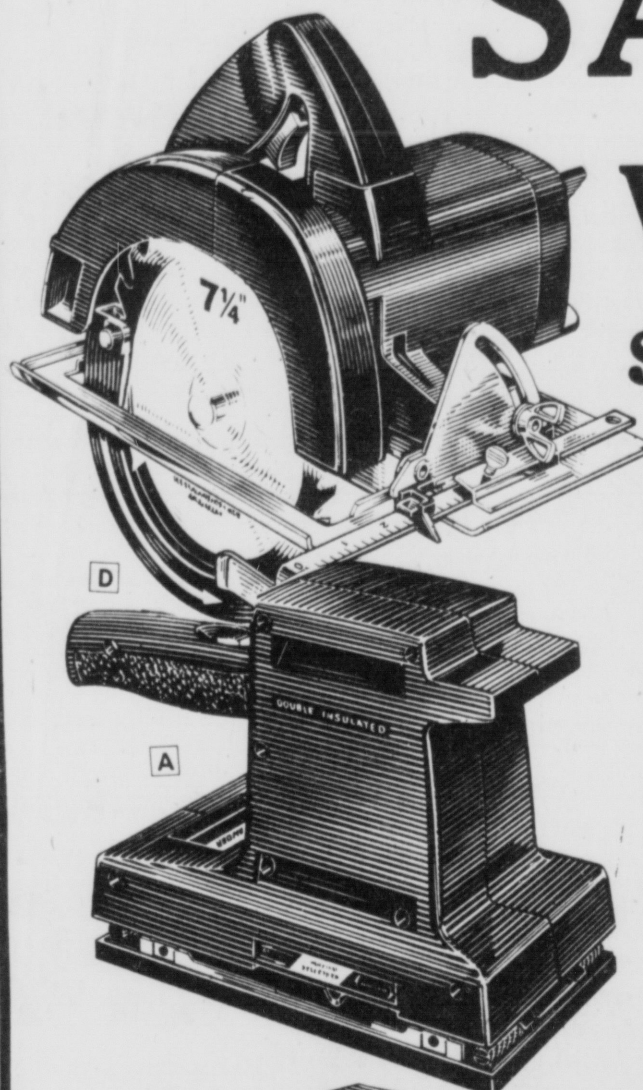

Most of the golfers entered here, however, remained in Houston. The LPGA tour moves to Mexico next week and the players' plane is scheduled to depart from here.

Flood sounded sadder than the women pros who were promised the $100,000 purse—second most lucrative only to the $179,000 Dinah Shore tournament next month at Palm Springs, Calif.

New Evidence in Murder Trial

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

The third murder trial of Gerald McGivern and Charles Culhane entered its fifth day of testimony by prosecution witnesses today with the introduction of new evidence discovered only last fall in the more than six-year-old case.

BCI Investigator Frank Petraglia told the jury that a new examination last October of the car in which two died resulted in the discovery of a previously unaccounted for bullet fired during the alleged escape attempt.

Petraglia said that previously only six or seven bullets allegedly fired had been found and explained that his search turned up the missing bullet beneath the rear seat.

Following Petraglia to the witness stand was state police lab chemist Dennis Kebabjian, who testified concerning tests done on blood stains on clothing worn by those in the car. Kebabjian said new tests done last fall on clothing worn by the defendants showed a different blood type than shown in tests done in 1968. The significance of the new evidence on the bloodstains was not immediately clear.

On Thursday, former Westchester County Deputy Sheriff Joseph Singer, who survived the alleged Sept. 13, 1968 escape attempt on the Thruway near Plattekill in which Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald and inmate Robert Bowerman died, was recalled to the witness stand by the defense. He testified briefly concerning his recollection of a conversation with former Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon two weeks after the incident and concerning an application for disability retirement as a result of the incident. Singer was on the stand three days previously.

Also recalled to the stand Thursday was BCI Investigator John Salters, who testified that he took from Bowerman's body at the county morgue a security belt which had been cut.

Most of the testimony Thursday afternoon was heard from Teelon, who was in charge of the investigation at the time of the alleged escape attempt. Teelon was called to the stand by First Assistant DA Michael Kavanagh, who is prosecuting with DA Francis J. Vogt.

Teelon identified several items of evidence he removed from the car in which the three inmates and two deputies were riding. Those items included "a piece of lead or metal" found under Bowerman's body, who was slumped over on the back seat, broken glass and metal particles from the floor mat on the passenger side in the front seat, and pieces of lead (presumably bullets or bullet fragments) removed from the dashboard and the door sill on the passenger side in the front of the car.

Teelon also recited a long list of items, including clothing, bullets, guns and security belts and handcuffs, which were submitted to the state police laboratory for examination.

Under cross examination by attorney Karen Peters, representing McGivern, Teelon said Singer once told him that Fitzgerald had fired only one shot from his gun, which apparently conflicts with other evidence, but does not necessarily conflict with testimony by Singer at this trial.

Attorney Henry Rothblatt, representing Culhane, questioned Teelon in depth about his training as an investigator in homicide cases.

Earlier Thursday, Rothblatt was admonished by Judge Robert Ecker when he protested the judge's ruling on an objection. "Don't argue with the court, Mr. Rothblatt," Judge Ecker ordered Rothblatt. As the trial has worn on Judge Ecker has seemed to become increasingly more indisposed toward Rothblatt's frequent requests for bench conferences when prosecution objections are sustained.

Legendary 'Rotten Luck' Can Only Get Better

NEW YORK—(NEA)—You must admit, a gimmick like being a Jonah—y'know, walking bad luck—doesn't pack the dramatic wallop of crowd pleasers like being set afire onstage or hanging yourself, but it is real—no one douses the flames or cuts you down afterward. Bad luck is not so easily dismissed.

This is the unwanted ploy of Ed Begley Jr., 24-year-old son of the late actor. Begley has been all over television. He has performed in guest spots on 22 different television programs ranging from Room 222 to the FBI, has appeared in nine films, has done four commercials and lately, has taken a successful crack at comedy.

But his real tour de force is his legendary rotten luck. Tall, gangly and with hair as blond as the typical California surfer he basically is, Begley attracts bad breaks as effortlessly as the OPEC attracts good ones.

Example: He and two friends from Los Angeles, where he lives the bachelor's life, travel to Mexico "for a little fun," as Begley puts it, in his new jeep. One friend is driving when smoke suddenly billows from under the hood. The engine's on fire.

They put it out, push it to a repair station and, several hours later, resume their trip. That evening, the other friend parks the Jeep atop a hill. Next morning, Begley squirts into the dazzling Mexican sunrise and spots his all-terrain pride and joy overturned.

"The emergency brake failed and it rolled down the hill then flipped," he says. He adds ruefully, "Now, I think I shouldn't have bought the Jeep but I needed transportation. I hate driving but once when I was in L.A. waiting for a bus, I was robbed and stabbed."

Example: Begley is appearing at the Troubadour Club in Los Angeles one night. Shows up three hours before the show, heads for a nearby hamburger stand for something to eat before his act, is hit by a car out of control, breaks a leg and is hung up for six months.

Example: One recent weekend when he came to New York, his hotel room was broken into and thieves took nearly all his stage props, his wallet and credit cards.

"My comedy act is a very visual one," he explains. "Without my props, I'm crippled." And replacing one of the props, a five-pound bag of turkey mix called "Pop'n Gobble" which magically produces a full-size turkey when popped into a toaster, is not easy.

But the reluctant optimist, tired of being bludgeoned with his own hard-luck reputation, simply says, "Things will get better. I'm sick of everyone harping on my misfortune."

PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED

As much as I enjoy doing comedy," he says changing the subject, "I'd like to get back to camera work. I started in this business as a movie cameraman and still enjoy it. I'd love to do a film that visually presents an album—music to movies—that sort of thing. I just finished a short film on singer Don MacLean and want to do much more experimenting with film."

There is the inevitable questions all scions of famous parents must endure: What part did being the son of one of Hollywood's favorite bad guys play in Begley Jr.'s destiny?

"Any talent I have," he says, "is osmosis. My father was one of the best character actors in the business.

"I remember a taxicab driver in Manhattan a few years ago driving while delivering an entire monologue my father did in 'Twelve Angry Men.' I respected my father's career very much. He was a great father, too. He encouraged me and my older brother, Tom, to go into show business."

Pair Are Injured

ELLENVILLE — Two Sullivan County men were taken to the Albany Medical Center today after suffering injuries in a one-car crash early this morning on Route 52 west of Ellenville.

Ellenville state police said Lawrence Radler, 19, of Kiamasha Lake and Allen Benacerf, 21, of South Fallsburgh, suffered multiple abrasions and lacerations when their car failed to negotiate a curve on Route 52 and smashed into a guardrail.

The two were taken to Kingston Hospital before being transferred to Albany.

Meanwhile, a 26-year-old Kingston man was cited for leaving the scene of an accident after he rolled his jeep over on Route 32 in Rosendale early today.

Ronald DuBois of Clinton Avenue apparently made his own way to Kingston Hospital after the 5:50 a.m. crash leaving his vehicle overturned on the highway. He sustained minor injuries.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department also cited DuBois for failure to remain in the designated lane. His vehicle apparently swerved on the highway, overturned and skidded about 100 feet on its side.

State Police also participated in the investigation.

Extension Session

The Ulster County 4-H will sponsor a meeting for anyone interested in raising a small poultry flock, whether for eggs or meat, Wednesday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Cooperating Extension Headquarters, 74 John Street, Kingston. Breeds of chickens, general problems of raising chickens and questions and answers will be discussed.

Six Month Sentence For LaRue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frederick C. LaRue, who was former Attorney General John N. Mitchell's chief political aide, was ordered today to serve six months of a one to three year prison sentence for his part in the Watergate cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered that the balance of LaRue's sentence be suspended and that he be placed on supervised probation for two years.

Sirica ordered him to surrender April 1, to begin his sentence at a place to be designated by the attorney general.

LaRue reminded Sirica that he said during the Watergate cover-up trial that the overriding issue in the case was getting at the truth.

"I think my testimony contributed to that goal," said LaRue, the first person to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and to give his cooperation to the investigator.

"To the extent my activities contributed to the whole tragedy known as Watergate, I'm sorry. I'm glad my later conduct contributed to that goal."

Sirica replied that he recalled LaRue's testimony. But the judge said he "must also constantly keep in mind the sentences of others in this case."

$200,000

Bail Set By Judge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Patricia E. Swinton, arrested Wednesday in Vermont as a suspect in eight anti-war bombings in New York in 1969, is being held in $200,000 bail while awaiting trial.

In setting the high bail Thursday, Manhattan Federal Court Judge Milton Pollack rejected defense arguments that the 33-year old defendant's only involvement in the alleged conspiracy was her love affair with co-defendant John Hughey.

Defense lawyer Frederick Cohn also argued that Mrs. Swinton was not likely to flee again. He said she had been waiting for the "the knock at the door" ever since another co-defendant, Jane Alpert, surrendered in November after four years as a fugitive.

In asking for high bail, Assistant U.S. Attorney David Cutner said Mrs. Swinton was part of a conspiracy that in 1969 "held the City of New York in a vise of fear."

Corn Conference

The Hudson Valley Sweet Corn Conference will be held Wednesday, March 19, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Kingston. The main topic of discussion will be the outlook for flea beetle populations this spring, with a number of other items on the agenda.

Jury Finds Man Guilty

NEW YORK (UPI)—A U.S. District Court jury has found a Newburgh man guilty of running an illegal gambling business in Orange County in 1970 and 1971.

However, Quinten W. Skipwith, 67, was acquitted Thursday on charges he bribed then-Newburgh police chief Humbert M. Cappelli and others for protection of his gambling operations.

Cappelli's testimony in the four-day trial suggested Skipwith had paid some Newburgh political figures for protection, including William Doulin, the Orange County Republican chairman.

Cappelli testified that he received $400 a month from the defendant for protection during an 18 month period. Anthony Paonessa, a former Newburgh police lieutenant, said he got $100 a month from Skipwith.

Cappelli and Paonessa both have been indicted and convicted on official corruption charges in the state courts.

Skipwith was indicted in August, 1974, by a special grand jury investigating official corruption in Orange County on charges of conspiracy to obstruct the enforcement of the gambling laws and operating a policy business.

His indictment resulted from a one-year investigation by the Joint Strike Force Against Organized Crime.

Skipwith, of 356 Grand St., is scheduled for sentencing by Judge Dudley Bonsal April 27. He could get up to five years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

Your Astrograph

For Saturday
March 15, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You exude charm and diplomacy today. Inject yourself into situations where you can be the bridge over troubled waters between friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) One who is close to your heart has good news for you. Seek a quiet, secluded rendezvous to hear it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though many miles separate you, your dreams and aspirations will be in harmony with one you're fond of.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although you won't know it for a while, a close friend will help your career by performing an unselfish act to make you look good.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Companions will find you exhilarating because of your refreshing outlook and considerate complimentary words and deeds. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your approach to another's handling of a tricky business problem will be clever and practical. You'll realize a modest part of his profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The seeds for a lasting social relationship will be sown on the basis of a few words you exchange with a new acquaintance.

Overbidders Should Play Well

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's jump to four spades was a substantial overbid. In fact most players would have passed the raise to two, but South was one of those players who felt that dame fortune would favor him.

Dame fortune did as a starter. A heart lead and heart return would have cooked his goose, but West led the jack of diamonds. South won; played three rounds of clubs to get rid of one heart and led a trump. West won with the jack and led a heart to East's ace. East led the jack of clubs, which permitted East and West to score their ace and king of trumps separately.

Overbidders should remember one basic rule: They must play exceptionally well. If South had, he would have made his contract.

The play isn't that difficult. After running the three clubs, South should have led dummy's last club and discarded his last heart on East's good jack of clubs.

This play of a loser on a loser would have made it impossible for the defenders to get in an overruff. In this way South would have lost only two trump tricks instead of three.

Heaviest Viet Fighting Since '72 Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — Tank-led Communist forces advanced on two district capitals near Saigon today, overrunning a series of bases and shooting down a pair of warplanes in a week-old drive across South Vietnam.

Military sources said 15,000 civilians and hundreds of militiamen fled Go Dau Ha and Khiem Hanh in panic Thursday as Communist gunners shelled the towns.

The sources said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong armor and infantry were moving on the towns from the northwest and northeast, storming police and militia outposts along the way.

Government commanders rushed reinforcements to the area, 35 miles northwest of Saigon, and field officers vowed to defend the twin towns against Communist assaults.

Communist gunners shot down a South Vietnamese A37 jet fighter-bomber and an L19 observation plane near the towns Thursday, killing both pilots, military sources said.

In Phnom Penh, fiery explosions at the city's airport died down early today after a rebel rocket hit an ammunition dump and closed the runway Thursday.

U.S. officials said the emergency airlift of food, fuel and ammunition resumed at dawn today after being halted because of the explosions.

Seven rockets hit the airport during the night and another 11 rounds crashed into the installation at dawn. There were no damages reported.

In South Vietnam, the Saigon command described the seven days of Communist attacks as the heaviest and bloodiest fighting since the spring 1972 offensive.

About 160 miles north of Saigon, at the embattled provincial capital of Ban Me Thuot, fighting slowed Thursday, a command spokesman said today.

Military sources said Communist forces controlled virtually all of Ban Me Thuot, but government troops continued to resist from a command post just west of town.

The fate of nine Americans — an embassy official, seven missionaries a 5-year-old girl — was unknown. But U.S. officials said all are believed safe.

The officials said batteries in the radio used by the Americans to give their location and condition faded Thursday and contact was lost.

Air Cover as Civilians Flee

The Mideast Bartering Goes On

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A senior official on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's plane today predicted Israel would have to come up with something new in return for "concrete" Egyptian proposals on an interim Middle East peace settlement.

Kissinger flew from Aswan, Egypt, today to present President Anwar Sadat's latest ideas for a troop withdrawal agreement to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and the Israeli cabinet.

The cabinet will meet to discuss the proposals Sunday and Kissinger said he hoped to take back a concrete Israeli response to Sadat on Monday.

"We are making progress slowly and I hope we can come to agreement, but that is far from guaranteed," Kissinger said on his plane flying from Aswan to Israel.

Kissinger reported Thursday that Sadat had come up with "concrete ideas" for him to relay to Israel, but the senior official said they were short of a formal diplomatic proposal which would have to be accepted or rejected.

He said the two countries have not yet begun to put things on paper.

Israeli sources have said that before making further proposals, Israel would have to know what political concessions Sadat would make in return for its withdrawal from two strategic mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields.

The senior official on Kissinger's plane said he believed now was the time for the Israelis to consider revising their last proposal, first made in December, offering to withdraw short of the passes and the oil fields.

He also said Sadat has answered some of the points raised previously by the Israelis, and it would be up to the Israelis to decide whether the answers are satisfactory. He said he believed progress had been made.

Kissinger scheduled a meeting with Rabin and the Israeli negotiating team today and planned to dine with the Israeli leader tonight.

Kissinger planned to stay in Israel only long enough to drop off the Egyptian ideas with Israeli leaders. He expected to fly on to Syria and then spend the night in Jordan.

Portuguese Army Placed on Full Alert

LISBON (UPI) — The leftwing military regime nationalized Portugal's banks today and union leaders appealed for vigilance in the face of rumored armed forces unrest.

The military rulers moved a battery of anti-aircraft guns onto the grounds of the presidential palace at Belem and placed the Portuguese army on full alert.

The Supreme Revolutionary Council, set up after Tuesday's abortive rightwing uprising, announced the takeover this morning of Portugal's commercial banking system.

The council, in the most revolutionary act since the armed forces came to power nearly a year ago, said the move would not affect Portuguese branches of foreign banks.

The takeover, the council's first official move, came amid widespread rumors touched off by unexplained troop movements and air activity.

The National Union Confederation, in a nationwide radio broadcast, warned workers of rumored military unrest Thursday and urged them to go to union headquarters.

"We have no information on these rumors, but we appeal to all workers to go to their union headquarters and be vigilant," the broadcast said.

Unexplained movements of tank and air force units Thursday night apparently touched off the rumors of military unrest. The regime went on television to deny any unrest.

Workers, responding to the rumors, set up barricades across Lisbon during the night, leading the government to issue a public appeal for calm.

"The armed forces asks the popular forces to dismantle these barricades because they are unnecessary," the regime said in a broadcast.

The rumored unrest came as leftist military officers solidified their control, purging six of the seven civilians on the Council of State — the Portuguese legislature. The regime said military men would replace the civilians.

Military sources said the moderate Popular Democracy party might be ousted from the Portuguese cabinet and replaced by the Popular Democratic Movement, which has close ties with the Communists.

The regime arrested dozens of moderates and rightists. Hundreds of others went into hiding to avoid being picked up by the military.
